

Matt Yeager
Partner

Maybe it's the fact that he used to baby sit a tiger named Athena, or simply that he has more than ten years of collections experience, but Matt Yeager is tenacious when it comes to saving clients thousands of dollars through debt-recovery solutions.

As partner and vice president of operations at NorthStar Technologies, Yeager oversees daily corporate operations, including monitoring the collection floor and cash flow from collection activities, setting and tracking collector goals, and creating and monitoring bonus structures for all employees. He monitors the training department for consistency with the Fair Debt Collection Practices Act (FDCPA), and oversees the compliance unit responsible for enforcing and monitoring FDCPA compliance, as well as the client and representative services department.

Founded in 2002, NorthStar provides a Web-enabled check management and debt recovery system that best helps customers improve cash flow, reduce processing fees and increase recovery of NSF checks and past due debt.

Yeager believes it's the information technology department at NorthStar that truly sets it apart from other collection services, because NorthStar has the capability to do everything in-house, and its IT professionals have the experience to produce the most sophisticated programs.

His professional experience in operations spans 15 years, including 10 years in collections services.

Matt Yeager also gives back, by participating in the Tulsa Zoo's "One Wild Challenge" – a strenuous climb up a challenging mountain range, raising pledges to do so. In 2009, Matt raised $5,000 to climb up Mt. Rainier. The money raised will pay for the Nature Exchange at the Tulsa Zoo, which provides hands-on learning experiences for at-risk youth.
